Seven Prominent Citizens To Receive BYU Awards

Special awards for lifetimes of service and achievement will be presented to seven persons at BYU commencement exercises May 26.

Those to be honored and their awards are:

Dr. Gerrit de Jong Jr., professor of modern languages and dean emeritus of the College of Fine Arts, will receive the Special Service Award.

John P. O'Keefe, general manager of Utah Copper Division of Kennecott, Copper Corporation, the Jesse Knight Industrial Citizenship Award.

Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Boswell of Salt Lake City, parents of ten prominent children and leaders in church and agricultural activities, the Joseph F. Smith Family Living Award.

C. Dean Olson, former mayor of Beverly Hills and President of Olson Bros. Inc., nation's largest egg distributor, the Abraham O. Smoot Public Service Award.

Dr. Harvey Fletcher, professor emeritus of physics and dean emeritus of the College of Physical and Engineering Sciences, the James E. Talmage Scientific Achievement Award.

David M. Kennedy, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Central Illinois National Bank and Trust Company of Champaign, the Ernest L. Wilkinson medal for extraordinary service to BYU.

Dr. de Jong, linguist, author and composer, was the first dean of the BYU College of Fine Arts and served until 1959. He is conversant in six languages and has written ten textbooks for German, French, Spanish and Portuguese. His many musical compositions range from "Come to the Lord" in the LDS Hymnbook to the "Sympathy Song" of the Shangri-La. He is a sum of many books in languages and religion. His public service included directorship of the Centro Cultural Brasil-Estados Unidos in Santos, Brazil.

Mr. O'Keefe, a participant in many BYU business and engineering activities, also has given unselfish support to community affairs. He has held official positions in the University of Utah Medical Center Fund, Salt Lake Chamber of Commerce, Junior Achievement of Utah, Utah Department of Employment Security, Utah Foundation, Utah Manufacturers Association, Pro-Utah, Western Governors' Mining Advisory Council and many others.

Mr. Boswell, retired from Extension Service of Utah State University, and Mrs. Boswell, are parents of ten children and grandparents of 37. In addition they have been "host parents" of many needy BYU students who have been taken into their home. All nine of their living children attended BYU.

They have held many important church positions, including missions at the Marion Harris Farm and the Joseph Smith Farm in Palmyra, N.Y.

In addition to his duties as head of the nation's largest egg distributing firm and mayor of Beverly Hills, Mr. Olson has served as bishop of the Beverly Hills Ward, Wasatch LDS Ward, and is chairman of the Planning Commission of his city. He was U.S. delegate to the Second International Egg Marketing Conference in Italy, has been advisor on the poultry industry to two Secretaries of Agriculture and an officer in Pacific and national poultry associations.

Dr. Harvey Fletcher left a position of head of physical research at Bell Telephone Laboratories to come to BYU in 1932 as director of research and later first dean of the College of Physical and Engineering Sciences. He has to his credit more than 20 major inventions in which research led him to phonetic devices to those enabling the deaf to hear and the dumb to speak. He has been honored with the highest awards of dozens of universities and professional associations.

For the past year Mr. Kennedy has spearheaded the new University Development Program. He joined the Bank staff in 1948 after 16 years of work with the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, and became the Bank's chief officer in 1949. He is a trustee of numerous civic organizations and universities and on the boards of such companies as Commonwealth Edison International Harvester and Swift and Company.

Speech, Art Departments Combined

The Speech Dept. and the Dramatic Arts Dept. at BYU will be combined into a single Department of Speech and Dramatic Arts next autumn semester, announced President Ernest L. Wilkinson.

Chairman of the combined department will be Dr. Lael J. Woodbury, now chairman of the Department of Dramatic Arts.

The Speech Dept. curriculum includes courses in speech and hearing correction and the arts—public speaking, debate, conference leadership, reasoned discourse, parliamentary procedure, theater arts, audiology, and speech composition.

Dramatic arts include voice, direction, acting, makeup, stage craft, interpretation, creative dramatics, directing, theater history, children's theater, playwriting and play production.

President Wilkinson said the two departments are being combined to eliminate excessive cross-referencing caused by teaching requirements which include both areas.

Pick Up Bananas

BANANAS can be picked up in 528 Wilkinson Center between the hours of 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. any day this week.

Buckle Down For Finals

Today is the day that everybody waits for and nobody likes to see. With a mixture of relief and sadness we watch the semester come quickly to an end at the same time resigning ourselves to a hectic week of cramming and examining.

Teachers busy themselves preparing exams and evaluating the semester's work (or lack of it), departments hire extra graders, and the health center prepares for the rash of tension and anxiety cases that indicate the arrival of finals week.

This has been a great year for the "yy" in many respects. Our athletic teams have gained additional recognition, the program bureau and international folk dancers have added to their impressive record of success, and we have made significant strides in the field of academics. Some of us have even made progress towards graduation by materially increasing our fund of knowledge.

As we prepare for our finals it is important that we realize that many students take finals very seriously and experience real anxiety when they are unable to study effectively. For most students an entire semester's work hinges on the final examination and it is sincerely hoped that they will receive a fair chance to show what they have learned.

In order to insure the availability of a favorable atmosphere for study we suggest the observance of the following courtesies during the coming week.

- Reduce socializing in the library to a conspicuous minimum.
- Reduce the amount of noise and confusion in living areas.
- Reduce distractions and temptation to avoid study by encouraging each other to use the available time for study.

By working at these goals we can establish an atmosphere of efficiency that will help many students do a better job on their exams.

Because the staff of the Daily Universe takes final exams seriously the paper will not be published during finals week. We would like to take this opportunity to say that we have appreciated the experience of writing about the school this year. We anticipate an even greater year to come and look forward to sharing it with you by way of the printed word. Work hard, do your best on your exams, and those who are leaving our very best wishes for continued success.

Musikal Notes On Government

Student Government is expanding in a positive direction throughout the WAC conference. Last Friday and Saturday delegates from nine major universities met to start the newly formed Western Collegiate Association (WCA).

In September 1965 the WAC was first proposed existence by student leaders from BYU. Originally it to encourage academic competition between universities and strengthen the student governments of each school and each other to solutions of common campus problems.

In the first year the organization floundered due to poor communication and numerous cases of no cooperation. The constitution was little more than a "suggestion." The success of College Bowl, debate competition, and lecture was embarrassingly small on most campuses.

Last weekend delegates from the University of Brigham Young University, Utah State, Arizona State University, University of Wyoming, University of New Mexico, Colorado State, and New Mexico State established a permanent office and attempted block booking top name entertainment for concert series.

WEIGHT OF RESPONSIBILITY

The constitution was written to put the weight of responsibility on one key administrator, the executive officer. The provision would eliminate the problem of a state body president having to find time to carry out WAC business. This past year Lynn Southam was the president of WAC but was unable to give it the time needed to keep smoothly functioning.

Incoming ASBYU President Paul Gilbert was about the justification of spending the student funds support the WAC and conceivably was ready to have pull out of the association.

The cost is about $900 annually for dues and the delegation to the conventions. The value would be the association of student leaders with one another, the promotion of academic competition, the solving of common problems, and possibly the saving of several thousand dollars for concerts in block booking.

Gilbert has not yet considered the report of the turning delegates, but he will likely follow the recommendation of Lynn Southam to whole-heartedly support the at least another year.

LEVEL OF GOVT

Another level of student government, which is being written about, is class government. Its existence is in question of philosophy of BYU student government.

Interestingly, of the nine universities attending WCA convention only Utah State supports a form of government. At the BYU 15 class government officers elected to lead the five classes from Freshmen to Graduates. At Wyoming only two officers are elected to lead the student body.

The difference is explained by the BYU philosophy. It involves a large number of students in character-based positions of leadership. Compared to other universities in the west, administrators at BYU have been very strict in allowing students to regulate almost all student activities.

The expense is comparable to most other universities. For example, Arizona University supports a budget of $200,000. New Mexico has a $12 per student fee to support its government. BYU has the $9 per student fee and $175,000 total budget.

THE FIGURE

Not included in the $175,000 figure is the class government budgets. These will total approximately $12,000, of which is usually spent for a class project, such as entrance gate near the baseball field.

Student government at the Y exists on three levels: interfraternity, executive council and cabinet, and the level. The WAC is young and wavering, needing to prove itself next year. Class government is a traditional hangover, but questionable in its justification for existence.

All three levels are safely within the BYU philosophy: "Leadership builds character."

Thirty For This Year's Staff

This issue will literally mark thirty for present editorial staff of the Daily Universe.

Thirty is the professional newspaper for "the end" or "that's all." So it will be the final effort of a staff that has worked long and hard. A staff I think that has been one of the most tried of the best to work together on a newspaper.

You may not think so, and may have exasperated from time to time this with The Daily Universe (especially day we left Peanuts out). But we hope campus "rag" has kept you informed.

Although giving kudos to the excellent staff, I'd like to also mention the less efforts of a very competent Y Press w; Grant, Howard, and Dave, and all others, who have worked late into the night and put up with the antics of Summers and myself to make sure this newspaper got to print.

In closing, I'd like to comment on the day of the present situation at the University of Utah Chronicle and Utah State Student Life.

All year long we've taken jabs from The Chronicle especially about being censored and their freedom of the press remained.

Ironic indeed is the situation. The many staffers feel they have been wronged much by the "Publications Council's selection of a new editor; that most of them have failed to form their own outlaw newspaper, the other hand the BYU Publications has been given to work with.

And I would like to say, despite any rum that you may have heard to the contrary, that no one this year has anybody else made a final decision on whether a my word, that is, or not, has anyone told a story could or could not run.

I am pleased with the excellent relationship I've had with my adviser, Mervin Fairbanks. He has always been helpful when I've asked advice over matters pertaining to stories and editorials, then stuck 100 percent behind me after I've made the decision about the story or editorial involved.

This type of a relationship is the best possible climate for freedom of the press I believe.

But lest our friends to the North get the idea that we have a very liberal Publications Board, while theirs is conservative, let me point out another important issue.

The issue is that of editorial responsibility. In order for any newspaper editor to have plenty of freedom and support, he must demonstrate to his publisher (or publications council) that he is capable of making intelligent decisions and then taking full responsibility for those decisions.

We feel that maybe this staff as a whole has exhibited the responsibility that has given the Publications Board confidence and brought about this atmosphere of complete freedom.

And maybe the outlaw journalists to the North could take note of this principle. Maybe by showing more responsibility, one of them, might be editing the Chronicle next year instead of Mr. Maybey.

In any event, our aims this year have been to make The Universe a responsible, informative newspaper that also contained significant issues that you would have a diversity of opinions about.

And think about. And maybe even go mad about. And maybe even feel strongly enough to write us a letter to the editor about.

Sometimes the tight rope seems pretty thin. But we made it to this point—thirty for this newspaper year.

Seminaries, Institutes Growing

By Ward Maggley

Department of Seminaries, Religion, officed S.M.A. Administration Building; first approximately one hundred teachers a year in an effort to expand program of reaching the youth of the Church. This showed an increase of an average of 15,000 students.

Anticipated that this growth even be accelerated next fall. Some 600 teachers are on full-time and 2,000 are on a part-time basis teaching religion, way of life and salvation to 150,000 high school and college students throughout the United States and in several foreign countries.

William E. Berrett is administrator of the Department working under the direction of Dr. Harvey Taylor, Administrator of Church Schools.

Newly-hired teachers are on BYU campus under the direction of Leland E. Anderson, program consisting essentially three steps. Religious Instruction which carries two hours of non-credit, is offered to sophomores. This class is oriented to fill vacancies in the program.

Familiarize prospective teachers with the Church School program, the philosophy of religious education maintained by the Department; and the relationship of the Seminary teacher to family, students, parents, church, administrators, and civic leaders.

The semester preceding student teaching, applicants are enrolled in Religious Education 371, which carries two hours of credit, non-applicable to the fulfilling of group requirements. In this case, applicants are schooled in the fundamentals of teaching religion, including lesson preparation and presentation. During student teaching they will spend one hour per day in an assigned classroom situation in a Seminary adjacent to their home or senior high school where they are assigned to do their regular teaching. During this period they are observed by several trained observers to determine their potential. "Nothing is more difficult," says Mr. Anderson, "than to successfully teach religion to teenage boys, but we do find some individuals who possess this rare gift. They are the ones we are seeking."

Their ability to so perform becomes quite evident as they stand before a group of young people in a regular Seminary class.

Those who pass this test are then assigned to an interview by one of the General Authorities to determine their worthiness to participate in this important program. From this approved group, placements are made to teaching assignments.

A bachelor's degree is necessary to enter the program, the major and minor wholly optional, together with a teaching certificate.

Although practically all teachers are male, women are not excluded. A mission is not necessarily a requirement to appointment.

After teaching for a year or more and establishing a high merit rating, teachers are encouraged to continue their education. Part-time teaching assignments in the College of Religion and near-by Seminaries are made available, together with waivers of tuition at these seminaries.

Sabbatical leaves may be applied after six years of service.

Upon the acquisition of advanced degrees, teachers are often assigned to Institutes of Religion or to administrative positions.

Interested, qualified individuals are invited to make an appointment for an interview with Mr. Anderson at A-265 ASB.

Not all Seminary teachers are necessarily trained at BYU. Marshall Burton, Coordinator of Seminary Teacher Training, and Place supervises training programs in the Institutes serving students attending the University of Utah, Utah State College, Weber State College, and the College of Southern Utah, together with general supervision of the program on campus.

Cindermen Seek WAC Crown

By John Appar
Universe Sportswriter

Bright Young University's talent-laden track and field team will fly to Albuquerque, N. M., this weekend for the Western Athletic Conference Championships.

The home-town Lobos defeated BYU last year in Provo by a narrow 83-87 margin and the two foes are expected to fight it out for the team title again this year.

LOBOS AHEAD

The Lobos finished a strong third in the West Coast Relays ahead of the Cougars' fifth place effort, but a comparison of the two teams reveals that their WAC totals might come up almost the same, with BYU holding a slight edge.

Former coach Clarence Robison is looking for top performances by some key individuals. Dave Reeves, defending titlist in the 100-yd dash, will get the call to hold down a Lobo point score in the dashes. New Mexico U. has three sprinters with a .94 century mark.

FINN FAVORED

BYU's Finnish freshmen Jaakko Tuominen and Pertti Poussi will be counted on heavily in specialties. Tuominen is rated the WAC's best in 440 hurdles and he could be a surprise in the 300.

Poussi has his nearest competition in the long jump beaten by over a foot and the triple jump blue ribbon is not out of reach.

Much of the team success may fall on the shoulders of distance star Bob Richards. The durable junior could at least place in three events but they include the mile, 2 mile, and 880. He performed the minor miracle in the Beehive

State Invitational and a duplication is not out of the question.

PATERAS NEEDED

Ken and Dennis Pateras should give the Cougars a sweep in the shot and discuss. Roy Thurman and Austin McNaughton could also add to the high field total to be held in the Cougar Bowl June 15-17. BYU placed second.

Regardless of the outcome of the big event last year and the Conference meet, it will serve pears to have an even start as an excellent warm-up for the squad this season.

Puma Netters Trounce Utes; Eye Repeat In League Finals

By Dave Hoover

Although BYU's defending WAC champion tennis team put its crown on the line in what coach Wayne Pearce said was a "sudden death" match, it turned out to be a real homecoming for the scrapping Cougar netters when they trounced the Utah Redskins, 6-3, Tuesday afternoon at the BYU courts.

The Cougar racketmen captured both the singles and the doubles events in competition that lasted five hours.

In the singles play Jim Osborne defeated Keith Nielsen 6-4, 6-2. John Pierce outlasted Mike Martines 7-5, 3-6, 6-2; Terry Ehlers squeezed past Frithof Fritz 6-3, 2-6, 6-1; Dave George edged Scott Benson 10-8, 4-6, 6-4; Hal Sears defeated Harvey Bottelsen 6-4, 10-8, 6-4; Carlos Sondel defeated Mike Waldrum 7-5, 6-3, 6-1.

BYU swept the doubles event with Nielsen and George overhauling Osborne and Martines 7-5, 3-6, 6-2, and Sondel and Bottelsen defeating Benson and Waldrum 6-3, 6-3. Utah Fritz and Sondel defeated Ehlers and Pierce 4-6, 6-4 and 6-3.

The victory put BYU back into a three-way tie with Utah and Arizona going into the Western Athletic Conference Finals this Friday.

Assistant Alumni Coach Larry Anderson, analyzing the Varsity-Alumni game Saturday, won the Varsity: "The intermissions beat us, plus we were too far out of condition. If we'd had a week to practice with all the boys, it would have been a different story."

and Saturday on the New Mexico campus.

The Cougar netters, who will be battling for strong league consideration in their division next year, will have an important role to play in the new year.

Immediately following the intense match with Utah, Coach Pearce commented: "We have a real good chance to win the WAC." If we had lost this match, we would have had very little hope of retaining our title."

Coach Pearce added, "If we win in the finals as well as we did today, we should win."

He also admitted that he was banking heavily on the performance of his no. 2, no. 3 and no. 3 singles players. John Pearce is presently top ranked in no. two singles.

Hallowed tradition of "pinning" a girl is up-dated by

Sprite bottle caps.

According to an independent survey (we took it ourselves), a startling new practice is becoming widespread on some college campuses.

Suddenly, fraternity men are no longer "pinning" the lovely young things that catch their eye.

Instead, they reach for a bottle of tart-tasting Sprite and proceed to "cap" the object of their affections.

through the ceremony of opening a bottle of Sprite. It's fast, it's easy, it's simple. It's "tangling".

All of which asks for a much more moving moment than to simply "pin" a girl.

Then, too, the intimacy of two people engaged in the act of opening a bottle of Sprite in itself leads to strong emotional involvement.

Capped off, of course, by the sharing of a few kisses and delicious sips. (Tasting the tangling tartness of Sprite, that is.)

The beauty of the idea is that if the course of true love does not run smooth, you don't have to go to the trouble of getting back your pin.

You just buy another bottle of Sprite.

members of BYU's baseball team from Lake City will see plenty of action in weekend's series against Wyoming. They (l. to r.) pitcher Duane Gustafson, short-ham Young University's all team couldn't ask for an exciting climax to the season than a weekend series game.

Cat nine plays Wyoming in a three-game series that will decide the northern division representative in the Western Athletic Conference playoffs, which will only be held at Tucson, Ariz., on May 27.

WAC LEADERS

Recently BYU leads the division with a 6-3 record while Wyoming won two games from them in a triple-header Sunday, one game behind at 4-3. The Cougars win two of three from the Cowboys this week, they'll go to the playoffs as division winner. However, Wyoming wins the series, the Cougars must travel to Salt Lake to play Utah in a doubleheader that was rained out earlier this year.

Aumping Utah State by 13-3 scores last Saturday, WAC horseheads appear to be power going into the conference finale.

Glen Tuckett's squad has the BYU record for team victories in a season with its 39-11.

mark, and several players have established new individual records.

Three Puma batmen have broken the record for hits in a season and each is vying to own the new mark. The old record of 45 hits set in 1962 by Bruce Samples has been eclipsed by Gerald Cardon (53), Dennis Lamb (51), and Steve Davis (51).

Cardon leads the hitters with a .391 mark, but Lamb is close behind at .389. Following Lamb are Davis (.340), Larry Romney (.337), and Dick Clark (.322).

Lamb owns several career records at BYU, including 118 hits, 30 doubles, 37 runs batted in, and 371 at bats in his three-year stay. The senior third baseman has also broken season records for RBI's with 59 and doubles with 13.

GREAT HURLING

A host of fine pitchers will also be out to build their records in the series against Wyoming. Two of them, Jim Engelhardt (9-2) and Bob Federaro (9-3), will be going after their tenth victories of the season.

NCAA Ducts On Sale

Many good tickets are still available for the NCAA track and field championship meet to be held in Cougar Stadium June 15-17.

Many of the world's finest athletes will be competing in the meet, including shot putters Randy Matteson and BYU's Ken Paters; mitters Bob Day, Jim Ryan and Cougar Bob Richards; pole vaulters Chris Papapantelou and BYU's Dave Reeves.

A better bargain in college sports would be hard to find. Tickets for the three-day series are on sale at the Smith Fieldhouse for $2.50 ($7.50 for the first two days and one dollar for the final day).

No-student tickets vary from $1.50 to $3.00.

The host Cougars have finished second in the nation two consecutive years, and are one of the favorites to win the national championship with an exceptionally strong squad.

Champion Cat Golfers In Defense Of Title

By Randy Koernig
Assistant Sports Editor

1967 seems to be the year of the championship for the Brigham Young University golf team. The Cougar linksmen have won titles in the BYU Intercollegiate tournament and the Pikes Peak Intercollegiate (for the third straight time) and seem headed for the Big One—BYU's second consecutive Western Athletic Conference crown.

Cougar Coach Karl Tucker and his successful crew of golfers are in Logan today for a dual encounter with Utah State. This will be BYU's last dual outing before taking on the rest of the conference this Friday and Saturday in Albuquerque, N.M.

LAST DUAL

Tucker's golfers currently boast a 7-8-1 dual match record. The only match the Cougars have not won this year was an engagement with the University of Utah in Salt Lake which resulted in a tie.

In their first meeting with the Aggies of USU, the Provo golfers clubbed the Farmers, 22-5, at the Riverside Country Club in Provo.

In last year's WAC meet, the Cougars ended the domination which the University of New Mexico had held on the Conference golf picture for several years. The 54-hole championship tourney, played over the Riverside layout, wound up with BYU 24 strokes ahead of second-place New Mexico.

BYU FAB

In individual competition last, BYU did fabulously well. Jack Chapman and Mike Taylor tied for second, while Utah's Bruce Summershays who fired a 247 total. Taylor and Chapman had 54-hole totals of 218. Bud Allin, a former BYU star who is now in the service, came in at 211 for third place honors.

All American John Miller, hero of this year's Pikes Peak victory, finished sixth, with 214 and Kean Ridd was ninth at 215. All of these scores were below par!

BYU golf coach Karl Tucker relaxes during a practice session with his two All-Americans Mike Taylor and John Miller. The Cougar golfers, undefeated in 27 straight matches, defend their Western Athletic Conference title May 19-20.

Sports Shorts

Some 17 BYU athletes have been named All Americans in the various sports during the past year. Their pictures and a short biography of each are posted on a special Cougar Club display in the Wilkinson Center lounge area.

Trainer Rod Kimball points out that Curb Belcher is the third Cougars footballer to participate in Chicago's College All Star game. Other are Jack Stringham (1939), a fullback, and Reed Nielsen (1947), a center who also was invited to play in the East-West game held annually in San Francisco.

Jeff Congdon, star of BYU's National Invitational Tournament in 1964, had a stellar season with the AAU Phillips Oilers team, and is an alternate on the U.S. basketball team which will play in the Pan American games.

Famous Pair Here For Summer

Grant Johansen, world famous Utah born pianist, and his wife, the equally renowned cellist, Zara Nalosova, will each serve as visiting faculty members at BYU this summer.

The noted pair will teach master classes from June 12 through 27 and give a series of concerts, both individually and together, June 15, 19 and 22.

The Summer Music Concert series will also feature a concert by the Philadelphia String Quartet Aug. 3.

FROM SALT LAKE CITY

Mr. Johansen, who was born in Salt Lake City, has been a public favorite, both in the United States and abroad, for two decades. He made a spectacular debut in New York in 1944 and quickly became in demand as a recitalist and soloist with orchestras.

He has played with nearly every major U.S. orchestra, including the New York Philharmonic, Boston Symphony, Cleveland Orchestra, and Philadelphia Orchestra.

He has performed with the great theaters of London, Paris, Oslo and Amsterdam and has concertized in South America. His 1965 tour of Soviet Russia was held as one of the "greatest triumphs ever scored by a visiting artist in the Soviet Union."

NOTE PERFORMER

Miss Nalosova also has performed with the Symphony orchestras of New York, Boston, Chicago, Pittsburg, Indianapolis, Los Angeles and Dallas. She appears often with her husband and in chamber music courses in major cities.

The tall blond virtuoso, who is the third generation of a distinguished Russian musical family, was born in Canada, educated in England, and is now a citizen of United States.

She made her debut with the London Symphony at age 12 and since has regularly toured Europe and South America. She has been acclaimed at the Festival Casals, the Prague Festival and the Aspen Music Festival. Her most recent triumph was an acclaimed tour of the Soviet Union, the first to be made by an American cello soloist.

Minstrel Group Not Fishy

by Barbara McShane

MADRID (UPI) — A group of minstrels in medieval robes sneaks into a typical Spanish restaurant, begins to sing and unrecognizable there as it is the tune which in Spanish doesn't mean fish.

It means music in a century-old tradition, performed by students of medicine or law.

POWERFUL VOICES

Their dress dates back to about the 11th century when the tunas had their beginnings in the ancient Spanish universities. All that's necessary for a boy's admission is to have a good powerful voice. The ability to strum a guitar or play the traditional "Panderu" (tambourine) certainly helps.

The tuna's dress looks like it was borrowed from a Boutique Spanish opera star, all in flowing folds of medieval fashion. It's coal black from the stockings and knickers to the fluffed sleeves and swashbuckling cap.

LACK OF COLOR

The only bit of color showing is the ruffled white collar and the numerous ribbons flowing from the cape and collected from the tuna's many admirers—female of course. Each ribbon carries some sentimental remembrance from Pili, Maria, or one of a dozen other feminine fans.

The more ribbons the more prestige, so it's always best to have a lot of girl friends on hand. For these Don Juans nothing can be simpler.

PRE-MED PRE-DENT

Dean of Admissions from the University of Oregon will discuss applications and acceptance to this university at a meeting of the Pre-Med Pre-Dent Club at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in 331 Wilkinson Center.

SPANISH TEACHERS

Returned South American missionaries interested in teaching Spanish at the Language Training Mission in the fall should meet in 128 Knight Magnum Hall any time Wednesday morning.

The Girl Habit....

by Dona Gregory
Society Editor

WHAT TO DO?

I was talking with a young friend of mine the other day, and he was excited about his mission call. The only problem said is, "What am I going to do about girls?"

"Well," I offered, "maybe you could stuff one in with your flannel board equipment."

He gave me a "why won't you go back where you came from," look and sighed, "I don't think I can break the habit," he said. "I'm hooked! I've thought about just quitting you know, putting girls right out of my mind—but that's what happens—I go right out of my mind!"

CAN'T SHAKE IT!

"Lately I've tried tapering off, but that only makes it worse. The minute I try and explain my situation, they get manic notions, and I can feel myself slowly sinking." He shuddered.

"Keep the faith," I shouted, and ran downstairs to comfort Charlene Bittlebaum.

After I explained the horrible situation in frantic earnest, she just sat back in her chair and starred at me like I had just said last marble.

UNSYMPATHETIC

"I've never had the problem myself," she said unsympathetically, "as a matter of fact, girls don't bother me in the slightest."

"Well, thank heaven for small favors!" I gasped. "You've got to help me save this poor suffering boy."

"Look, sweetie," she said wryly, "have you looked in the mirror lately?" I could've missed my guesses entirely, but I'd be willing to bet my bank book that you happen to be a member of the fair sex yourself!"

I walked over and looked in the mirror. "Ya, you're right."

"Brilliant," she said, "so it's only logical that you'll make things worse."

GRAPPLING AROUND — AGAIN

I started to leave, a mere girl, dejected and ready to return to my drowning friend, to admit that because I was just a girl I didn't have any right to think of solutions to problems—instead I only grappled around with situations.

Suddenly, Charlene leaned over her desk, and trying to keep her excitement down she whispered, "I think I have an answer!"

"I think what your friend needs is a two-year supply!"

"Are you kidding?" I said, shocked. "Who needs food a time like this?"

A SOLUTION, AT LAST!

"No, no, idiot, not food—girls!" He can simply date all the lovelies he can find, tell each one he's madly in love with them, ask all of them to wait and then when he returns one of them will surely still be around."

"Why, Charlene, that's absolutely deceitful!" I said gash. She passed me on her way out of the office, "Oh, gats all right, dearie—the important thing is we solved the problem."

By the time I got back to my friend, I was pretty unimpressive. I took one look at him and yelled, "sink or swim, buddy!"

Cherlyn Olson Second In Jazz

Miss Cherlyn Olson has returned from the "Intercollegiate Jazz Festival" in Miami, Fla., where she placed second in the vocal division.

Miss Olson, a junior from Sacramento, Calif., is majoring in music education, specializing in vocal. She was sponsored by the Salt Lake Jaycees, and was flown to Miami with all expenses paid.

REGIONS COMPETED

The nation was divided into five regions with the winners in big band, small combo and vocal of each region going to the finals in Miami. Salt Lake City was the site of the finale of the western regionals held last month. Dr. William Fowler, director of the regional contest and a music professor at the University of Utah, also made the trip to Miami.

The contest was held in the Jack Clegg Convention Hall with Gleeson in attendance. It was covered by the ABC network and Radio Free Europe.

For her numbers, Miss Olson sang "I'm All Smiles," "You're Going to Hear From Me," "Young and Foolish" and "Going Out of My Head." Judges included such personalities as the Rev. Father O'Connor, Oliver Nelson, Bob Share and Gary McFarland.

JOB OFFERS

As a result of her performance, she has received a number of offers for the summer. Among them are touring with Fred Waring and Band, an appearance at Expo '67, a USO tour with the North Texas State College Band to the Orient or Africa and an offer from Capitol Records.

Composer Sends Photos To Laycock, Vance

Ralph Laycock, conductor of the BYU Symphony Orchestra, and Cynthia Vance, freshman violin soloist, have received autographed photographs from Aram Khachaturian, great Russian composer, whose works they performed on a recent Western tour.

It all began in the Convention Center in Las Vegas, Nev., where the Western Division Convention of the Music Educator's National Association was being held. Eugene Weintraub, a New York music publisher and friend of Mr. Khachaturian, whose violin concerto the orchestra was performing, attended the afternoon rehearsal and was extremely impressed with the orchestra and with Miss Vance, who performed the solo in the first movement.

After the rehearsal, Mr. Weintraub introduced himself to Prof. Laycock and expressed his pleasure with the orchestra and its performance of this composition with which he was personally and intimately acquainted.

At the concert, Miss Vance received a standing ovation from the very critical audience of music teachers for her performance. Mr. Weintraub sent several copies of the program to Mr. Khachaturian, as well as his comments about the orchestra and the young violinist.

The composer was so pleased at the recent autographed photos for Prof. Laycock and Miss Vance that Mr. Weintraub who forwarded them with his congratulations to the orchestra conductor.

Earlier this year the orchestra and Miss Vance had the experience of being coached by Mikail Vaiman, the Russian violinist who appeared at BYU in February. Mr. Vaiman is the head of the violin faculty of the Leningrad Conservatory. According to Prof. Laycock, this undoubtedly had a bearing on the success of the performances at the convention and elsewhere on the spring tour.

Been Fishing On Campus Lately?

By Dawn Lambert
University Feature Writer

Seen anyone eating soup with his hands lately? Has anyone attended one of your classes with a comforter, then comfortably settled back for leisurely concentration during your instructor's lecture? Observed any fishermen casting in a campus pool lately?

What is this sudden upsurge of non-conformity, of brazen yet nonchalant, weirdos, or reversal of socially accepted norms on the BYU campus?

For the answers, consult Dr. David Stimpson of the Psychology Department, who assigned his Social Psychology 350 students to violate social norms and then to write a paper dealing with their own feelings as well as the reactions of observers to the violations of the norms.

SLEEPS IN LOUNGE

One of Dr. Stimpson's students, Jim appeared in the Wilkinson Center step-down lounge last week with an Army blanket, pillow, and alarm clock. He spread the blanket out neatly on a couch, set his alarm, and feigned sleep. When his alarm rang 20 minutes later, he got up, folded his bedding, put the items in his briefcase, and calmly left the premises.

One woman, Lois, walked with quilt in hand into another of her psychology classes. She got two desks—one to sit and the other for a footstool—wrapped the comforter around her, and stretched out her feet. Near the end of the lecture, she got out a carton of milk and some brownies and proceeded to eat them during the remainder of the class period.

Ken walked into a dance at Cannon Center wearing a World War II Air Force flying suit—a one-piece leather outfit complete with AC 12 volt cord and plug for warming both suit and occupant inside a cold cockpit. He casually asked if he could sit down, was asked for an outlet so he could plug in his suit. The workers there graciously tried to find him one. Ken reported that he asked several girls to dance, but none would accept. He left disappointed, but somewhat enlightened about the sanctions involved in violating norms.

Rulon searched for a meter maid downtown and informed her that his meter had run out of time while his car was parked and he wanted to pay her the $6 cent for the late time. "It's not that I care that she eyed me the same way she would an inmate from the State Mental Hospital. But then she said, patting my hand, that I reminded her of her son who also had a "strong conscience," Rulon reported.

Roger donned a fishing hat and put his pole down to the Administration Building pool, where he reported him to security, and an officer came to investigate. He asked Roger a few questions and left. It was reported that the officer was laughing rather loudly as he drove down the street. Passersby reacted to the scene by looking in the pool for fish, or did not react at all—many observers simply ignored the fisherman.

While most of the incidents are humorous, the reactions of observers say something about human nature.

According to Dr. Stimpson, the assignment was made to "illustrate how our social behavior is well controlled by social norms—norms which have rarely been mentioned directly to us and were never made explicit."

Changes In Courses, Credits

The College of Religious Instruction announced a change in courses and credit hours that will effect all upper and lower division students.

The courses involved are Church History 341, 242, 441, and 442.

The major change, according to LaMar C. Berrett, acting chairman of the undergraduate department, is in the 400 series. In the past, the courses were three-credit hour course, taught one hour five days a week for two semesters. Starting next fall the series will become a two-credit hour class and will require three semesters to complete the subject material. Instead of studying three volumes of the text each semester, as in the past, now only two will be used. The text is B. H. Roberts' "Comprehensive History of the Church," Course 441—The Life of Joseph Smith, will use volumes one and two; 441—Pioneer and Early Utah Period uses volumes five and six plus "Twentieth Century Mormonism" by Cowan Allen.

Dr. Berrett said the difference between the 200 and 400 series is that the 200 series is freshmen and sophomores who desire a less detailed approach to the subject while the 400 series is an intensive study designed for juniors and seniors.

There are two reasons for the change. One is the apparent student preference for two-hour religion classes over a three-hour course. Secondly, the department would like to keep and encourage the younger students to take classes together rather than invading classes designed for freshmen and sophomores. It also creates an unbalanced load.

Some 2,000 students were signing up for the lower division study while only about 60 were taking the upper division. This limited the latter to only a few sections while the former created a need for opening new sections and reallocating teachers.

This summer BYU Russian students will participate for the first time in a study abroad program in the Soviet Union.

The tour is being organized for the students by Peter Lyashko, instructor of Russian. He will also direct the activities of 25 other Americans studying at Moscow University this summer as part of the Work and Study Abroad Schools program (WSA). A non-profit organization, WSA conducts summer studies at a total of 12 European campuses.

Besides Moscow, the touring students will take in Kiev, Leningrad, Minsk and other eastern and western European capitals. According to Professor Donworth Gubler, assistant professor of Russian, BYU graduates in Russian are achieving wide recognition. Of last year's seven graduates, six of them won NDEA graduate fellowships (the seventh did not apply). To Prof. Gubler's knowledge all have been renewed this year, he said.

Curator Works Dinosaur Quarry

A new dinosaur quarry is being worked on the eastern slope of the Uncompahgre Plateau south of Grand Junction, Colo., by Brigham Young University under a federal permit. Exposures of two dinosaur skeletons were first discovered in the area by Mr. and Mrs. Daniel E. Jones of Delta, Colo., in 1965. Realizing the scientific value of such a deposit, they contacted James Jensen, curator of the Earth Science Museum at BYU.

More than 35 feet of a new species of long-necked dinosaur have been uncovered at Pit No. 1. According to Jensen, it is a Camarasaurus but is different from any known in the past. It displays long neck ribs which are not found on any mounted skeleton in the United States today.

A partial skeleton of the very large Sauropod, an Apatosaurus, occurs in Pit No. 2. Jensen said the anterior portion of the skeleton has weathered away, but part of the hips and one rear leg are present, and the tail, which may be as long as 35 feet, appears to be complete.

NEW AREA

Mike Helms of Delta, Colo., opened up the 18 miles of road from Grand Junction to the quarry with his D8 Caterpillar tractor free of charge just because he was interested in the project. Jensen said the road also will open up an area for hunting and recreational purposes which has been impossible.

Samples have been transported to Jensen's laboratory at the quarry by Mr. and Mrs. Jones. Keith Miller, district manager of the Bureau of Land Management in Grand Junction, surveyed the route of access.

Summer Ed. Weeks To Draw Thousands

More than 50,000 persons will participate in BYU's Education Weeks programs this summer.

Geared to the theme, "Values in a World of Change," 80-100 BYU faculty will teach courses between May and October and train adults interested in furthering their education.

The faculty members travel in small groups visiting specific geographic locations of the country. They stay in each city three days.

Areas to be visited include Canada, Mexico and locations within the United States from Pittsburgh and Washington, D. C., in the East to Seattle and Los Angeles in the West.

Instruction is given in science, religion, social sciences, business and the art. Special attention is placed on improved church services, better home life, significant community service and individual development.

Stake presidents of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints invite the BYU educators into their area. The stakes are responsible for the necessary physical facilities.

and also arrange for special displays, contests and assemblies.

Approximately ten hours of class work will be offered each day.

Chris D. Poulos, chairman of Education Weeks programs, says, "Since we deal in non-credit courses, our main purpose is to motivate people to continue their learning."

This is the 49th year that BYU has sponsored the Education Weeks program. In 1922 BYU offered the first program to the residents of Provo.

The program now reaches over 250 stakes and 2,500 wards of the LDS Church. Many persons not affiliated with the LDS Church take the course work when it comes to their area.

Students' Papers Win

Ernest Bramwell and Joe Hilton both won second place awards in the Student Paper Contest sponsored by the Rocky Mountain Council of the American Society of Civil Engineers.

The contest was Friday at Utah State University and the participating schools included Utah State, University of Utah, Colorado State, University of Colorado, Colorado School of Mines, University of Wyoming, and the South Dakota School of Mines.

Bramwell won second place in the technical division with his paper on "The Gravity Transportation Model." Hilton won second place in the non-technical division with his paper on "A Comparison of the Basic Oxygen and Open Hearth Methods of Steelmaking."

On April 20 two other C. E. students, Glen Boylan and John E. Neff, placed third in the Student Paper Contest sponsored by the Pacific Southwest Council of the ASCE and hosted by the University of Nevada at Reno. Both placed in the finals and Neff won second place in the technical division of that contest with his paper on "High Strength Steel in Structural Design."
